Dear Friends,

On behalf of the residents of San José, it is my honor to welcome you to the International Microelectronics and Packaging Society's 40th Anniversary Symposium.

IMAPS has created a global network of innovators who have led the way in their field. With publications, workshops, and international conferences and exhibitions, IMAPS has encouraged the advancement of electronics packaging and has significantly increased the accessibility of technology around the world.

The City of San José is proud to be a part of this year's event. As the Capital of Silicon Valley, San José is the ideal location for technological leaders to come together and cultivate ideas for the future.

While in San José please feel free to explore our friendly downtown, great restaurants, leisure activities, and cultural features. I hope that everyone has a productive and pleasant experience in San José.

Sincerely,

Chuck Reed
Mayor
